At the New School, we are working hard to create a healthy place to learn, and we are looking for students who want their lives to start now, not when they graduate from high school or college. Something that can have a really adverse effect on a school community, especially a small one like ours, is if students are using drugs or alcohol. So we're not going to tolerate them. Are you willing to abide by The New School's policies against their use? _____
